

Art Flick

Art Flick was one of the most sophisticated dry fly anglers in America, a passion culminating in his Streamside Guide, first published in 1947, a thin but valuable work which would become one of the most popular, best selling fishing books of all time. His legacy is simplicity, informed through careful observation, pointing out that you needed only a very small well selected number of flies. Art was revered by every great fisherman of his day, chief among them was Ray Camp, outdoor columnist for the New York Times. Born in 1904, and passing on in 1985, Arts run of fame spanned forty-five years. Even today there is no one who dry fly fishes for trout who does not hold him in high esteem.

Located on a 160 x 25 site near the south entrance of Newburyports Clipper City Rail Trail, the Alchemical Garden is a richly layered evolving art and horticulture experience that is accessible on many different levels to the public. Alchemical Garden Plot plan Alchemical Garden is designed to become a model for a sustainable, interactive public garden through the use of symbiotic, low maintenance plantings and recycled materials. The ancient discipline of Alchemy marries art and science and is famously known for transforming a common material into gold. The Alchemical Garden will lead the community to transform on a number of levels : Alchemical Garden with Spring Wheat "Crop Circles" June, 2011 BUILD COMMUNITY: The Garden creates a gathering space for individuals to form a more intimate relationship with their community. The space is designed with visual features and seating areas to compel passers-by to pause, reflect, and have a multi-sensory interactive experience (sight, smell, touch, taste, smell) with the garden and the community.
