Slam-Dunking Wal-Mart is written in two parts. The first part describes why Wal-Mart, Home Depot and their kin are a threat to small community life in America. The second part gives you a game plan to stop Wal-Mart and other big-box retailers in your home town, much the way Al Norman and other concerned citizens kept Wal-Mart out of Greenfield. The book is a call for the preservation of all the qualities we love about hometown America. It is one mans David versus Goliath story. It can also be a road map for your communitys fight to keep its downtown businesses and core values.
